About Mumbai

Formerly known as Bombay, Mumbai is the capital of the western state of Maharashtra. The city is a natural harbour lying at the mouth of the Ulhas River on the west coast of India.

The Arabian Sea lines the western border of Mumbai, which has an average elevation of 14 m. The city is sub-divided into two distinct regions, Mumbai City district (Island City) and Mumbai Suburban district, which together cover an area of 603.4 sq km.

With a population of approximately 12.5 million, Mumbai ranks as the most populous city in India and the fifth most populous city in the world. Along with the neighbouring areas of Navi Mumbai and Thane, the city forms one of the most populous urban regions in the world. Mumbai has also been christened as an ‘Alpha world city’ in 2009 and has the highest GDP in South, West and Central Asia.

History of Mumbai

Mumbai was originally built on an archipelago of seven islands, namely Bombay Island, Parel, Mazagaon, Mahim, Colaba, Worli and Old Woman’s Island (Little Colaba). These islands have been inhabited since the Stone Age and were collectively known as Heptanesia. The region was ruled by dynasties like Satavahanas, Konkan Mauryas and Rashtrakutas, from the 2nd to 9th century BC.

The islands came under the control of the Silharas (810 to 1260), King Bhimdev (1261 to 1346), and the Delhi Sultanate (1347 to 1407). An independent Gujarat Sultanate governed the islands from 1407 onwards. Bahadur Khan Gilani of the Bahamani Sultanate tried to establish control over the islands in 1493, but failed.

During the European rule, Sultan Bahadur Shah of the Gujarat Sultanate signed the Treaty of Bassein with the Portuguese on 23 December, 1534. Control over the seven islands of Bombay, along with Bassein and its dependencies, was thereafter surrendered to the Portuguese on 25 October, 1535. The British Empire took possession of most islands on 11 May, 1661, after the marriage treaty of Charles II of England and Catherine of Braganza.

After Baji Rao was defeated by the British East India Company in 1817, Deccan was incorporated in the Bombay Presidency. The seven islands were coalesced into a single landmass by the Hornby Vellard project and were made the capital of the Presidency. Post independence, the territory was restructured into Bombay State. In the 1950s, the Samyukta Maharashtra movement was initiated to create the state of Maharashtra.

On 1 May, 1960, the state was reorganised on linguistic lines, and was named Maharashtra State with Bombay as its capital. In the following years, Bombay witnessed several unfortunate events like Hindu-Muslim riots (1992–93), series of bomb blasts (1993), and terrorist attacks (2006 and 2008). However, the city still flourishes and currently serves as the commercial capital of India.

People & Culture of Mumbai

Rechristened as Mumbai in 1995, it has become the largest city in South Asia. It is home to the world’s most prolific film industry and also houses several historic sites. Characteristic of natural beauty, ethnic cuisine and eclectic shopping destinations, Mumbai is a popular tourist destination. The city of Mumbai is known for its 24x7 culture and vibrant nightlife.

Things to do in Mumbai

Mumbai has a lot of structures, monuments, cultural centres that are a standing testimony to its rich history. It is also home to a number of gardens and a national park, which are must-visits for travellers visiting Mumbai. Featured review about Mumbai

Top 5 things for the explorer!

1. Shhh... Secret Beaches of Mumbai: Yes, there is the famous Juhu beach or Marine drive where the entire Mumbai descends on every weekend and the sand becomes almost clayish and filled with litter. The best way is to escape to lesser known beaches which are pristine, filled with sand and shells and clear sea!!! There is Manori beach and Gorai beach close to Borivali station. Then there are a series of beaches in a line - Erangal, Madh and Aksa. These 3 are beaches of piece of land separated from mainland by backwaters. Absolutely serene and peaceful places.

2. Explore Kanheri & Elephanta Caves: A long weekend getaway from Mumbai would take you to Ajanta and Ellora Caves which are UNESCO World Heritage sites. However within or very close to the city are Kanheri & Elephanta that can be visited within day. Kanheri Caves is located within Sanjay Gandhi National Park and are Buddhist caves. There are 109 caves in a vast area of several hectares and regular tourists and locals reach only till about 10 caves. Reach early, walk about and explore the entire terrain! Elephanta Caves (under UNESCO) is a Hindu cave, in an island to be reached only via a ferry from Gateway of India. Enjoy the sculptural marvels and enormity in both caves, and also frescoes in Kanheri.

3. Explore the Forts of Mumbai: Somehow whole of Mumbai is littered with forts everywhere, mostly built by Portuguese. It's just amazing. It's all nested in the midst of the cosmopolitan life, between skyscrapers, tucked away and protected. Yeah, most of these places also serve as kids playground and lovers haven! If you take the Harbour line of local train, at every railway station, there are 1 or 2 forts - CST, Bandra, Mahim, Madh, Sion, Sewri, Worli, Andheri, Borivali and Vasai.

4. Eat Vada Pav & Chaat at roadside eateries: Eating in Mumbai cannot be over without Vadapav. There have been several days, when my lunch had been 2 vada pavs that I eat in train while commuting!!! Its our local version of burger, a half-split soft bun with fried potato balls between with a sauteed chilli. There are tons of varieties of Bombay Chaat available - with vegetables, with legumes, with yogurt, with chips and many many more, and most of them - healthy!

5. Feel the crowd: Finally, after exploring all the untrodden paths, Mumbai must be felt in all its glory with the people of Mumbai. Walk into Dadar station and travel by local train, visit Juhu beach or Marine Drive on a weekend evening. Its an experience, or rather an adventure by itself (no, I'm not exaggerating!). Here's a tip, do not wear precious jewelry or carry too much cash when you do this; and women, dress very very modestly." - Bhushavali Natarajan, Chennai, Oct 4, 2016

Mumbai, the city that never sleeps!

"Mumbai is truly a dreamland for someone who wants to make it big in life. There's just so much to do in the city, so much to explore, so many opportunities. Its difficult to sit idle, the city has so much to offer. This was my first visit to the city, & I instantly fell in love with the city. Feb is a good month to visit Mumbai, the weather is pleasant especially the evenings, afternoons are still comfortable & its not yet humid. Perfect time to roam around & explore the city. I stayed in Colaba which is the southern most tip of the city & is one of the most happening & lively areas of Mumbai. For a tourist, traveller, Colaba would be the perfect place to stay. There are numerous hotels in the area, but be prepared to shell out good amount of money. One could find a decent hotel in about 5-6 K per night. It is a little over-priced but its all about the location. Gateway of India, Taj Hotel are also located in Colaba. Marine Drive & Chowpatty are just only some 10 mins away & cabs are easily available. Colaba Causeway is a great place to shop, both street & high end, & is loaded to cafes. Cafe Leopold being one of the most famous. Colaba comes to life after say 10 & is up till 4 in the morning. Lots of good pubs & eating joints make it a perfect destination for people who believe in partying real hard.

Other places to see in Mumbai are: Carter road, sea link. Siddhivinayak Temple & Haji Ali are places of religious importance. Its recommended for travellers to try Mumbai's local train, preferably on weekends or non-office hours. Local railway is definitely the life-line for Mumbaikars. Real Mumbai can be adequately seen while in the local train. People of Mumbai are welcoming, warm & nice. The over all culture of the city is quite welcoming & people seem very happy in spite of their busy schedules.
Mumbai is a must visit for travellers." - Prachi Sahni, Delhi, Feb 15, 2016

Best of destination, Mumbai

"Once again, I visited Mumbai with my family. We were supposed to reach Mumbai by 6:00pm but due to some reasons our flight got delayed and we started at 6:40 pm, means it was all dark outside. In month of January (winters), sunset happens quite early in Delhi. We missed the broad day light sky views from the window seat but somehow something good was waiting.

Yes, as soon as we reached top of Mumbai, the whole land was glittering with so many lights. It looked from plane as if it was Diwali night but in reality Mumbai is always so well illuminated. One can experience the wonderful night life where families are out till late night enjoying food joints or cool pleasant sea breeze at Marine drive (Nariman point). We again took a stay at YMCA - a nice, quiet, peaceful and economical place to be!

During day, you can shop in the main market of Colaba and click some pictures at Gateway of India and Taj. It's in the heart of Mumbai. It is most beautifully maintained area of Britishers' time. All old buildings are well restored and must see (Chartrapti Shivaji Terminus). Not only building but even I cant forget clicking Red & Black coloured fully operational in good condition Letter boxes which are on verge of extinct in most cities. Ferries are easily available on pre-paid basis for sea ride (30 mins) and till Elephant caves (going & coming back will consume more than 3 hrs). Beside this, there are plenty of food joints to relish your taste buds in Colaba like Bade Miyaan, Baghda, Shiv Sagars, Shakahari Bhandar, Leopard cafe Moginis Bakery etc. If not these then at every few step you can purchase eat the local bada pau, pau bun, pau bhaji, bhel puri etc.

If you have kids, you can visit Taraporewala Aquarium. It is small and sweet with a good collection of all sea fishes (small & big both), sea turtle & tortoise. It is near to Marine Drive. Ahead is famous Hajji Ali dargah. If you have time, do visit Siddhi Vinayak and Shree Maha Lakshmi temples also.

It's exciting to see bungalows, houses/ flats of famous film stars (Amitabh Bachchan, Salman Khan, Rekha, Sharukh Khan, Yash Chopra, Ajay Devgan, etc to name a few) in Bandra & Juhu. At Juhu key attraction is the main chowpatty beach to view sunset and ISKCON Temple. You can rejoice the most tempting vegetarian food buffet at Govinda's Restaurant. It is advised to travel via Sea link from corner to other in Mumbai else you might get caught in traffic jams.

Near Colaba is fashion street market of Mumbai with more than 150-200 shops in a single row but stuff is just similar to Janpath market of Delhi. Other than these best Souvenirs shops are in Colaba. To shop more, linking road market, bandra markets are good enough. Taxis are never a problem to search in Mumbai. Your taxi driver serves you as good tourist guide. Beside this, sport lovers can club this trip during annual Mumbai Standard Chartered Marathon (like we did as my hubby participated and successfully completed his full marathon). All above places can be covered within 3-4 days visit to Mumbai. Weather also remained pleasant during our stay (25 degree C to 29 degree C).

If you are lucky enough like us to have friends who are already there to meet then the joy will get doubled. So, do not stop yourself, pack and go!! - Kumud Mehra, Ghaziabad, Jan 30, 2016

Those Who Are Lost They Feel Like Home.

"The World's most populous, and Nation's commercial Capital is an ancient place where seven Islands of the west coast which were Bombay Island, Parel, Mazagaon, Mahim, Colaba, Worli, and Little Colaba, and initial step of the Hornby Vellard engineering project for uniting the seven islands into a single landmass in 1782, contributed to have this dreamy capital, as it is the capital of Maharashtra state too. As the Kolis a fishing community were the earliest settlers of the Island and later the Mauryas took over the control and developed as a Hindu and Buddhist religious centre in 3BCE, but they could not continue for a longer period and rule passed to successive indigenous dynasties: Satavahanas, Abhiras, Baktrikas, Kalachuris, Konkan Mauryas, Chalukyas and Rashtrakutas, before being ruled by the Silhars from 810 to 1260. King Bhimdev established in the late 13th century and brought many settlers in the region for the developments. In 1348 it was captured by Muslim Rulers of Gujrat and from 1391 to 1534 it remains under Gujrat Sultanate Haji Ali Dargah in Mahim, built in honour the Muslim saint Haji Ali in 1431, and a treaty was made between Portuguese viceroy Nuno da Cunha and Bahadur Shah Of Gujrat and Basein was handed over to Portuguese in 1534. During the mid-18th century, the city emerged as an important trading town, with maritime trade contacts with Mecca and Basra. Economic and educational development characterized the city during the 19th century with the first-ever Indian railway line beginning operations between Mumbai and neighbouring Thane in 1853. King Bhimdev Built first Babulnath Temple during his regim, Elephanta caves were of Sixth century, Kanheri caves and Mahakali caves were of mid third century and known for Hindu and Buddhist artisans and inscriptions. Portuguese ruled to grow the religious sentiments and constructed many churches like St. Michael Church in Mahim was built in 1540, and whole area was distributed among various Portuguese nobles by the Viceroy, and they strongly encouraged the Inter cast marriages to support the Roman Catholic Church. The St. Andrew Church at Bandra was built in 1575. The marriage treaty of
Tips for travellers is that don't carry too much of stuffs with you because each and everything you need from medicines to shopping sites like fashion street, zaveri bazaar, Crawfar market, etc. Which will definitely keep you busy for about 3-4 hours.

The food was fabulous. You won't be empty stomach anywhere in Mumbai. There are various tourist places which you can definitely visit any time. We were in Mumbai for 4 days and where our mind becomes calm and we gain peace. In spite there is Sanyas Ashram too which is full of beautiful artefacts and decorations of houses with lights, rangolis, food, and much more.

An amazing destination for travellers

"Last year, I had visited Mumbai with my family and group for sightseeing and fun. I had visited Mumbai because of its glory and food. Yea that's right, Mumbaikar's eat food 24x7 and the best thing is the best selling foods is available on streets rather on restaurants. The best time to visit Mumbai is in winter season because you will find various festivals and beautiful decoration of houses with lights, rangolis, food, and much more.

So the most visited place we found in Mumbai was Juhu beach. It's was fabulous. The cleanest beach I ever saw in Mumbai. Besides that there are various temples like Haji Ali Dargah and Mahalakshmi Mandir which is very beautiful and holy place where our mind becomes calm and we gain peace. In spite there is Sanyas Ashram too which is full of beautiful artefacts and murtis. There are also various pubs, cafes and bars which you can definitely visit any time. We were in Mumbai for 4 days and on the first day we went to Mandirs which took about a day to visit. The second day we got to beach for fun. The third day was party time so we went to pubs. And the last day before leaving Mumbai we saw gate way of India which was a world wide attraction.

We saw various sites and destinations and the best thing of all was each one of them consist of nearly about 50 street vendors selling food all the way. The food was fabulous. You won't be empty stomach anywhere in Mumbai. There are various shopping sites like fashion street, zaveri bazaar, Crawfar market, etc. Which will definitely keep you busy for about 3-4 hours.

Tips for travellers is that don't carry too much of stuffs with you because each and everything you need from medicines to..."
clothes will be available at each location. So enjoy Mumbai." - Urvesh Rathod, Mumbai, Jan 6, 2016

May are usually the hottest and most humid, with temperature often going as high as 35º Celsius.

Mumbai received a very healthy monsoon and almost every year the city experiences its share of monsoon floods. Monsoon starts around June and continues till September. During this time the city receives heavy showers. The average annual rainfall that the city gets is around 2200 mm and July is often the wettest month, receiving the maximum rainfall.

The months between October to December is considers as the post-monsoon season. During this time the monsoon recedes and the weather remains dry and pleasant. The temperature gradually goes down with the month of November experiencing sunny days and warm, pleasant nights.

The city experiences winter between December and February and during this time the average temperature remains between 15º Celsius to 25º Celsius. Although never too cold due to its close proximity to the sea, the city does enjoy does have the occasional chilly days brought in by the cold northern winds.

The winter months of December to February is the best season to visit the city. Apart from this being the festive season, during this time the weather is pleasant and temperatures comfortable. The monsoons completely recede by this time and the weather is dry and clear with moderate temperatures and a pleasant breeze.
